About this record

Genre/Subject Matter:

Scene showing a settlement and Indian troops on parade at Bassidore (Basaidu) Station on the western extremity of Qeshm (Kishm) Island.

The mud and reed-built two-storey building behind the troops is surrounded by a fence. To the left of the image in the middle-ground hessian or jute sacks are piled in a large heap. A number of figures, aside from the troops on parade are visible seated on the ground near the sacks as well as on the terrace of the building.

In the background a paddle steamer is visible at anchor in the bay beyond.

Inscriptions:

Upper right, in pencil alongside image: '49', 'b'

Below image, in pen: 'Bassidore Station'
